I have been a fan of his for quite a while and was a little worried about reading his autobiography. So many times I have read ones by people I admire only to be turned off them. Not so with Mr Hester's fun book. Carl comes across as a genuine, sweet individual. Not afraid to describe embarrassing or difficult times.

I picked up Making it Happen, the autobiography of Carl Hester, last fall after attending his NEDA Symposium. The book is written in Hester’s voice—and the text has the unpolished quality of someone who does not write professionally—but on the back inside cover jacket it indicates the book was co-authored by equestrian journalist Bernadette Hewitt, whom Carl affectionately refers to throughout as “Bernie”.
