The exams provided by the Association of Social Work Boards are used in every U.S. state, as well as the District of Columbia, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the Canadian provinces of Alberta and British Columbia. Depending on jurisdictional requirements, candidates may take one of five examination categories: Associate, Bachelors, Masters, Advanced Generalist, and Clinical.

Association of Social Work Boards (ASWB) :: Pearson VUE

ASWB administers five categories of social work licensure examinations: Associate; Bachelors; Masters; Advanced Generalist; Clinical; Not every jurisdiction uses all five categories, so candidates must be sure to check with their individual boards to find out which examinations are appropriate for the jurisdiction in which they are seeking licensure.

About the Exams - Association of Social Work Boards - ASWB

The social work licensing exams are all pass/fail exams developed to measure minimum competence in social work practice. In any pass/fail exam, there is a “pass point,” the number of questions a candidate must answer correctly in order to pass the exam. All jurisdictions that use the ASWB exams recognize the same pass point. This pass point varies, depending on the category of exam you’re taking and which version (“form”) of the exam you get.
