(139) (A), a parchment manuscript consisting of 347 folios, mostly quaternions, 29.5 x 22.5 em, with 31 lines to a page. 3 The Taktika of Leo begins on folio 189. The manuscript has been dated to early in the second half of the tenth century. 4 The text, however, is not the same as that found in M and W, but is a paraphrase, with words often transposed.

Tactica of Emperor Leo VI the Wise | Manuscript ...

Leo cautions his generals not to risk themselves in combat, a remarkably "modern" idea for an age when personal leadership on the battlefield was expected. The Taktika emphasizes the importance of holding out a reserve, and the use of a "wedge" formation for armored shock cavalry. Leo also stresses the criticality of morale and psychology, including the role of religion; for example he notes that it may be advisable before battle for the commander to spread the rumor that he has had a dream ...
